

Dear friend,

♥ There once was a little kid who had so many questions. So many that even parents and schoolteachers couldn't answer them.

It took the kid a long time to find the answers. Journeys through the wild, into the jungle, over the sea, out of the cold and into the heat, through the heart of storms, in and out of happy and unhappy places.

But when the answers were found, the kid was so excited and decided to write them down and share them with all the children in the world!

This book is a gift to you from this little kid. Enjoy growing up and remember you are loved.

Big hugs, the kid, the stars, the sky, the earth, the birds, the trees and everything else Mother Earth has to offer, from which YOU are one of the precious gifts. ♥

Take your time with this book.
You don't have to read everything at once.
Just read what you need in the moment.

When the little kid came into this world,
she knew it was a miracle to be alive,
and there was so much to discover!
She couldn't wait. She had so many questions!
Sometimes all these questions made her happy.
At other times, she felt lost and overwhelmed,
as if the questions were wrapped in endless threads and knots.
But every day was a chance to discover new answers.

Why do I have a name?
And why does everything else
have one too?

Let me tell you a secret.
Your parents gave you a name,
but you're much more
than just your name.
Inside you lies
the whole universe.
